Body	Statute	Role in a digital-asset matter	When the client meets it
Personal Data Protection Commission	Personal Data Protection Act 2012	Data protection, cross-border transfer	Platform design, customer data
Cyber Security Agency	Cybersecurity Act 2018	Critical information infrastructure, incident reporting	Exchanges and custodians of scale
Infocomm Media Development Authority	Info-communications Media Development Authority Act 2016	Electronic transactions, digital trust	Smart-contract and e-signature questions
Official Receiver / Insolvency Office	Insolvency, Restructuring and Dissolution Act 2018	Bankruptcy and compulsory liquidation	Failure of a counterparty
Singapore Land Authority	Land Titles Act 1993	Tokenised real estate	Real-asset tokenisation

Each of these bodies appears in a later Part. The point of listing them here is to show the civil-law reader that "one regulator" does not mean "one authority". The Personal Data Protection Commission's view of pseudonymous blockchain addresses, examined in Part J, Chapter IX, binds a platform as much as MAS's notices. The Ministry of Manpower's decision on an Employment Pass, examined in Part P, Chapter I, decides whether a founder can live in Singapore at all. A structuring plan that clears MAS and fails at the Ministry of Manpower has failed.
